

In celebration of the 2nd NATIONAL TEACH PORTUGUESE WEEK, the Department of Spanish and Portuguese invites you to

A conversation with Professor Eduardo Brondizio about the current state of the Amazon and indigenous populations in Brazil

Wednesday, November 3rd, 2021

10:30 AM

GA 2134

Eduardo S. Brondizio, Distinguished Professor of Anthropology, director of the Center for the Analysis of Social-Ecological Landscapes (CASEL), and Senior Research Fellow with the Ostrom Workshop at Indiana University Bloomington. Brondizio has been working in the Amazon for over 30 years.

The National Teach Portuguese Week is an event of the Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese (AATSP). See all the activities and participate in this celebration from November 1 to 5!

